Will rebates be available before the IRA is rescinded

Like other homeowners concerned about reducing my carbon footprint, I have been waiting nearly 2 and a half years to receive a rebate to replace my propane-fueled furnace, cook range, and dryer with a heat pump and electric appliances. President-elect Trump, as well as House Republicans, have repeatedly stated that they will end this program once they are in office. Many people, including members of Congress, have repeatedly asked the DOE and the CEC in California to speed up the roll-out of this program, but all were ignored. The election has come and gone, with the Biden Administration ignoring its own visionary, and much needed program, giving the American people a promise but not delivering. The CEC had no sense of urgency, either, knowing full well that the program could be in jeopardy while green house gases continued to be emitted. NOW is the time for the CEC to go into emergency implementation mode and make this program available by December 2024. Also, provide an information telephone number on the CEC website.
