Where are the rebates

I installed a new energy efficient electric heat pump for my house in August and found out that we STILL don't have access to the Inflation Reduction Act rebates and tax credits introduced by President Biden over TWO YEARS ago! From what I understand, even though we installed energy efficient appliances after the IRA was passed, we still can't get the rebates and tax incentives from California government because they have not yet implemented the funding (after 2 years!). The Trump administration is going to kill all of these incentives next year. California should provide the incentives retroactively to all of us that upgraded our homes since the IRA passed. It is not our fault the state is dragging their feet. We did our part, now it's time for our state government to live up to their end of the bargain!
