Background

On February 28, 2007, the city of Victorville submitted an AFC to construct and operate the 563 megawatt (MW) Victorville 2 Hybrid Power Project. The project involves a hybrid mix of natural gas-fired combined cycle generating equipment integrated with solar thermal generating equipment. Construction of the proposed Victorville 2 facility would require three areas that total 388 acres, located immediately north of the Southern California Logistics Airport which is the site of the former George Air Force Base. Including the land required for the solar collectors, the footprint of the power plant would require grading of approximately 338 acres, and construction laydown would require two separate temporary areas of 20 and 30 acres each. The project site is situated approximately 3.5 miles east of Highway 395 and approximately 0.5 mile west of the Mojave River. The Energy Commission is responsible for reviewing and ultimately approving or denying all applications for thermal electric power plants, with a generating capacity of 50 MW or greater, proposed for construction in California.
