Chris-

I just read about the PCT mandate and think it's the stupidest idea i've ever heard. Holy crap! The state will lose more money than it thinks it's gonna gain and you will get so many people going around the system, that in the long run, will waist more energy than you think you'll save. There will be constant fighting between the folks and the commission day in and day out, minute to minute, second to second. How much energy will be wasted there? All for what a few pennies and a chance for the few who came up with this cockamamy idea to hold their head up high at the next election? ya'll make me sick sometimes, and now's one of 'em.
