Dear Mr. Gekas,

I am adamantly opposed to the changes in title 24 which would allow remote control of my home thermostat. While I shall do everything humanly possible to maintain a low energy consumption profile, in cooperation with our common goals for reducing energy consumption. I shall not ever accept, under any circumstances, the remote operation of my heating and cooling in my home.

Please do not approve this change to title 24 as relates to homes. You may if you deem it reasonable, consider this change for some large scale businesses, however this type of thing is absolutely out of place in the sovereign environs of ones personal residence.

Thank you,
Marc Wendt
