

From: John Parrinello <john.parrinello@lennoxhp.com>
To: <Docket@energy.state.ca.us>
Date: 111112008 8:50 AM
Subject: Docket No. 07-BTSD-1

The California Energy Commission,

Have the people running California gone completely insane? The idea of the Utility company, or any branch of state Government, controlling the temperature inside my own home, is not only outrageous, it's politically correct madness. Thinking that this type of Big Brother control over free citizens individual lives, is better than building new energy supply systems (like maybe Nuclear Power Plants!), is so short sighted and stupid, that it makes me wonder if the people at the California Energy Commission have lost their collective minds.

If the price of energy needs to increase, that's one thing, but denying me the basic tenets of the Constitution (life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness), is something completely different and completely unacceptable. If you geniuses determine that the temperature in all California Energy Commission offices, the DMV, State Government offices, or other public buildings needs to be controlled, fine. Just keep your remote controlled hands off of my thermostat and stop meddling in my private life!

Disappointedly Yours,

John Parrinello
Yorba Linda, Calif.