Subject: Docket No. 07-BTSD-1

The new Title 24 proposals, and more specifically those dealing with Programmable Communication Thermostat devices, constitute and unprecedented and intolerable invasion by State regulatory agencies into the lives of individuals in their own, private residences. These proposals seek to enact an egregious transgression of personal liberty that contravenes the sacntity of all American values of privacy, personal liberty, individual rights, and freedom.

Mark me well: the American public WILL NOT tolerate this. These devices, if deployed, will be forcibly removed, mauled, smashed, torched, mutilated, and they will find their way back to the offices of regulatory agencies, Legislators' offices, and the State Governor in rebellion against this nanny-state incursion.

If you persist in moving forward with these proposals despite public outcry and outrage, let me be among the first to invite you to FUCK OFF! I certainly will NOT be the last.
