California Energy Commission

Attn: Members,

I am writing pertaining to your new plan to have monitors in our home and controls to regulate the temperature in our home.

In our home we turn the thermostat down to 60 degrees at night and only raise it to 68 degrees during the day when necessary.

To force people to have the monitors in their homes is truly invasive. The Utility Companies have records of the people who use the utilities excessively. The Utility Company can address those individuals and not force the rest of the people who do not abuse the use of the utilities.

With the number of people moving into our State it is imperative that more utility plants are built. If the existing plants are dirty, can't they be cleaned properly and used effectively.

Too many times the majority of people are affected by the actions or desires of a few, and without being consulted.

I hope that this new plan is not accepted.

Thank you for the opportunity to express my opinion.

Respectfully,

Mr and Mrs. Alfred V. Romine
