Docket No. 07-BTSD-1

I'm sixtyfive years old and lived in the same house since 1976, so don't expect this propsal will affect me. But I would gladly relinquish control of my household power systems if, at the same time I were to receive a 100% tax credit for the installation of solar panels or an emergency generator. As a mater of fact, I believe requiring these installations on all homes and businesses would solve the power problem entirely. PG&E could install these at there cost and then not have to build any new power plants. Sounds like a win-win to me.
