To the California Energy Commission:

I am writing this email in regards to your decision to put radio control devices into our thermostats. I am completely opposed to this idea. To have the freedom of our control of the temperature of our houses taken away is absolutely unacceptable. I rarely run my AC in the summer and bundle up in the winter, to come home and have my AC or heater on and have to flip the bill is absurd. If California is having an energy crisis then find another way, another option.

Sincerely,

Christeen Adkins
