RECD. JAN 15 2008

Dear Commissioners:

I'm sure any law or ruling that attempts to control the temperature in people's homes will be found unconstitutional! What a major invasion of privacy. Thank goodness for the court system.

We have a newly built very energy efficient home & only pay about $37 a month for electricity. When we have a perfect system, why should we be forced to add something else or change it? This idea will hurt people who are already struggling to pay their mortgages.

If you are controlling the heat in people's homes, you might be sending in more heat than they would want or need. This "just for emergencies" policy could be expanded.

We have a Thermostat that is regulated outside the building at work and it doesn't work. To suggest regulating people's personal heating & cooking mechanisms is an outrage. There is no mention of how much these systems will cost consumers either. Sincerely,
We are against it. Virginia & Chris Jon

Q. How can you only give people two weeks to respond? Is that legal?
