

From: josh josh <famous8s@yahoo.com>
To: <pflint@energy.state.ca.us>
Date: 1/12/2008 7:16 AM
Subject: Controlling thermostats

DOCKET 07-BSTD-1
DATE JAN 12 2008
RECD. JAN 15 2008

Mr. Rosenfeld,

I recently read an article online that brought to my attention that you are behind the bill to allow California to control our thermostats. Rather than tell of you my disgust for that idea I want to know why you feel the government should be able to control my thermostat? How is this not another step to our government taking more and more control of our lives? Why wouldn't you propose to have more power stations built rather than to control the people paying for them? This is a poor idea on your part. What is the next step, controlling my gas pedal when there is a increase in gas prices. It is not the governments place to control these areas. I have shared this article with every person I know and will continue passing it on in disgust.

Thank you for you time and I await your reply.