I am totally against "smart thermostats" and cannot believe politicians want to even consider this approach. As a private citizen, I have woked hard all my life to ensure my family will be comfortable in the winter and summer in our own home. The very thought of having any agency determine what level of home heating/cooling my family needs is downright scary.

California is already on the brink of becoming a Third World country. This is one more terrible step in that direction.

STOP THIS ISSUE NOW!

Tnank you.
