To whom it may concern,

The SFGate.com article of today ("Critics cool to 'smart thermostat' proposal") may be a little mis-leading...this critic isn't cool, he's blazing hot. I won't allow my government at any time in the present or future to place any radio controlled device in my home, period.

Saving energy is good. Saving energy at the expense of civil liberties is bad. Saving energy because of fashionably unrelenting hysteria about "global warming" is childish.

Mt. Saint helens burped out more junk into the atmosphere in twenty four hours than man has done in a hundred years (this data has not been scientifically verified...it just sounds good! Sound familiar?).

Stop pretending you're doing us a favor by "allowing" us the privelage of blocking your transmitter. Get out of my home!
