The Committee Final document will be posted by January 2, 2009 on the Energy Commission website at [\[http://www.energy.ca.gov/2009\_energypolicy/documents/index.html\]](http://www.energy.ca.gov/2009_energypolicy/documents/index.html).

Background

The Energy Commission is directed by Public Resources Code (PRC) Section 25301 to conduct regular assessments of all aspects of energy demand and supply. These assessments serve as the foundation for analyses and policy recommendations to the Governor, Legislature, and other agencies. The broad strategic purposes of these policies are to conserve resources, protect the environment, ensure energy reliability, enhance the state's economy, and protect public health and safety.

To carry out these regular assessments of expected and needed electricity supplies, "the Commission shall conduct... [an] assessment of the availability, reliability, and efficiency of the electricity and natural gas infrastructure and systems including, but not limited to,...western regional and California electricity and transmission system capacity and use." (PRC section 25303(a)(3).)

In addition, the Energy Commission is directed by PRC section 25324 to "adopt a strategic plan for the state's electric transmission grid." Furthermore, when developing the strategic transmission plan, PRC section 25333 directs the Energy Commission to "confer with cities and counties, federal agencies, and California Native American tribes to identify appropriate areas within their jurisdictions that may be suitable for a transmission corridor zone. The commission shall, to the extent feasible, coordinate efforts to identify long-term transmission needs of the state with the land use plans of cities, counties, federal agencies, and California Native American tribes."

The Energy Commission is preparing these assessments for the 2009 IEPR. Resource plans submitted by transmission-owning load-serving entities will provide a foundation for the analyses and recommendations of the 2009 IEPR and the 2009 Strategic Transmission Investment Plan.

On November 19, 2008, the Energy Commission staff released a draft document entitled Forms and Instructions for Submitting Electric Transmission-related Data, publication no. CEC-100-2008-012-SD. An Energy Commission staff workshop was held on December 4, 2008, to solicit public comment from interested parties on the staff draft document. After the workshop and the receipt of written comments, the IEPR Committee is proposing this final version of the Forms and Instructions.
