Agenda

At this workshop, Energy Commission staff will present draft transportation energy demand forecasts for California and review their analysis regarding transportation energy demand scenarios, petroleum and alternative fuel demand forecasts, federal and state fuel policies, and transportation energy infrastructure.

Background

As required by Senate Bill 1389 (Bowen, Chapter 568, Statutes of 2002), the Energy Commission conducts “assessments and forecasts of all aspects of energy industry supply, production, transportation, delivery and distribution, demand and prices.” The Energy Commission uses these assessments and forecasts as the analytic foundation for developing energy policies that conserve resources, protect the environment, ensure energy reliability, enhance the state’s economy, and protect public health and safety. Developing energy policy recommendations about the most current and pressing energy issues facing the state requires an evaluation of potential trade-offs by an in-depth and integrated analysis which explicitly addresses inter-fuel and inter-market effects (Public Resources Code §25302(b)).

The Fuels and Transportation Division develops assessments and forecasts of transportation fuels and related markets. Transportation energy demand and fuel price analyses support several related energy policy and program activities, including the Alternative and Renewable Fuel and Vehicle Technology Program (Assembly Bill 118, Nuñez, Chapter 750, Statutes of 2007), investment allocation analyses, petroleum use reduction assessments, and transportation fuel infrastructure requirements. Inputs to the demand forecasts include: transportation fuel prices, estimates of base year demand, economic and demographic data and projections, surveys of vehicle purchase and use, the make-up of California’s current vehicle fleet, and projections of auto manufacturers’ vehicle offerings.

A workshop agenda and related material describing the transportation energy demand forecasts for the 2013 IEPR will be posted online by August 19, 2013 at [www.energy.ca.gov/2013\_energypolicy/index.html].
